The Mésanges Team Trained by the Albatros Québec Movement

- A volunteer accompaniment service in palliative and end-of-life care whose mission is to accompany the person and their loved ones so that they go through this stage of their life as serenely as possible.
- The accompaniments are offered by volunteers chosen and recognized for their interests and their human qualities, necessary for end-of-life support.
- Volunteers received 36 hours of training from the Albatros Québec Movement.

Eligibility Criteria

- For people at home, in private homes for seniors and occasionally in hospitals.
- For people in palliative and end-of-life care, to support their loved ones.
- Offered during the last two months of life or less.
- Available 24 hours a day, depending on volunteer availability.
- References by professionals of the health network are required.
